Linus Lind

ABOUT ME

I'm a gameplay programmer focused on building responsive player mechanics and modular gameplay systems. I enjoy solving technical challenges related to gameplay feel, iteration, and system scalability. I thrive in both collaborative team environments and independent development, and I'm motivated by continuously improving my technical skills while creating engaging player experiences.

EXPERIANCE / PROJECTS

Game programmer / Game designer, Intern House of How
May 2025 – Dec 2025

- Implemented modular gameplay systems in Unreal Engine 5, focusing on player mechanics and scalable feature architecture.
- Developed AI behaviours and gameplay ability logic using Unreal Engine gameplay frameworks.
- Designed and iterated gameplay mechanics through prototyping, playtesting, and balancing.
- Supported development across prototypes and production stages in collaborative team environments
- Worked closely with design and programming teams to refine gameplay feel and system usability

SOLO PROJECT – MODULAR WEAPON & RECOIL SYSTEM
Unity C# 3D

- Designed and implemented a modular weapon architecture supporting interchangeable attachments such as optics and sights.
- Built reusable and scalable gameplay code with emphasis on readability and system extensibility
- Implemented procedural recoil and aiming mechanics tuned for gameplay responsiveness and player feedback
- Created data-driven weapon configuration allowing fast iteration and customization

RETAIL WORK – CITY GROSS / WILLYS
